

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

PHILLIP LYONS,
Plaintiff,
v.
PATRICIA LEONHARDT, et al.,
Defendants.

3:05-CV-400 JCM (VPC)

ORDER

17 Presently before the court is prisoner plaintiff Phillip J. Lyons' motion in limine # 1
18 requesting an order permitting plaintiff to appear at trial in civilian clothes and unshackled. (Doc.
19 # 183). Defendants Paul Lunkwitz, Santerren Ward, and Jay Barth responded. (Doc. # 200).

20 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 1 to exclude defendants' use of force
21 on plaintiff and any alleged injuries to plaintiff arising therefrom. (Doc. # 184). Plaintiff responded.
22 (Doc. # 202).

23 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 2 to exclude allegations of negligence
24 or failure to adhere to prison regulations. (Doc. # 185). Plaintiff responded. (Doc. # 203).

25 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 3 to exclude the existence of any 26 physical injuries sustained by plaintiff and the recovery of money damages for the same. (Doc. #
27 186). Plaintiff responded. (Doc. # 204).

1 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 4 to exclude evidence of alleged
2 "conspiracy" by defendants to violate the rights of plaintiff. (Doc. # 187). Plaintiff responded. (Doc.
3 # 205).

4 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 5 to exclude evidence of defendant
5 Ward and Barth's culpable conduct or liability for any cause of action in this case. (Doc. # 188).
6 Plaintiff responded. (Doc. # 206).

7 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 6 to exclude attempts to 8 impermissibly shift the burden of proof in this matter by suggesting defendant failed to present
9 evidence or witnesses. (Doc. # 189). Plaintiff responded. (Doc. # 207).

10 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 7 to exclude evidence of non-parties
11 as parties in this suit and non-issues as issues to be tried. (Doc. # 190). Plaintiff responded. (Doc.
12 # 208).

13 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 8 to exclude evidence of prior bad
14 acts or character of defendants to prove conformity therewith. (Doc. # 191). Plaintiff responded.
15 (Doc. # 209).

16 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 9 to exclude other lawsuits and claims
17 filed against defendants or NDOC officials for purposes of suggesting or establishing prior bad acts.
18 (Doc. # 192). Plaintiff responded. (Doc. # 210).

19 Also before the court is defendants' motion in limine # 10 to exclude evidence of the 20 operability of the "food slot" in the door of plaintiff's prison cell and defendants' method of 21 extracting him from the cell. (Doc. # 193). Plaintiff responded. (Doc. # 211).

22 Also before the court is defendants' motion for leave to examine out-of-state witness Ollie
23 Powe at trial by contemporaneous video transmission. (Doc. # 198). Plaintiff responded. (Doc. # 24 213).

25 Also before the court is defendants' motion for order to produce inmate witnesses at trial and 26 at remote, video transmission sites. (Doc. # 199). Plaintiff filed a non-opposition. (Doc. # 214).

27

1 Last before the court is plaintiff's motion for leave to examine in-custody witness Marcel
 2 McKnight at trial by contemporaneous video transmission. (Doc. # 241) . Defendants did not 3 respond.

4 I. Brief overview

5 This case is an inmate 42 U.S.C. § 1983 civil-rights case in which prisoner plaintiff
 6 challenges the conditions of his confinement as violative of the U.S. Constitution. Plaintiff alleges
 7 that on March 9, 2005, he was housed with another inmate, Marcel McKnight, at High Desert State
 8 Prison ("HDSP") in violation of prison rules. Plaintiff was transferred to HDSP from Lovelock
 9 Correction Center ("LCC") on the evening on March 9, 2005, to attend a small claims trial at Las 10 Vegas Justice Court the next morning.

11 Upon being placed in a cell with inmate McKnight, plaintiff complained to prison officials
 12 that he and McKnight should not have been housed together without first having been classified to 13 be cellmates at HDSP. When communicating this complaint, plaintiff used an "emergency 14 grievance," not an ordinary grievance.

15 The emergency grievance was denied. Plaintiff then requested a written response of the denial 16 of his emergency grievance. Plaintiff alleges that defendants retaliated against him in violation of 17 the First Amendment for seeking this response. Defendants deny these allegations.

18 Previously, the court granted summary judgment in favor of defendants on this issue. (Docs.
 19 # 70 & 139). However, the Ninth Circuit reversed this court as to plaintiff's First Amendment
 20 retaliation claim. (Doc. # 144).¹ Plaintiff's retaliation claim is the only issue proceeding to trial.

21 II. Motions in limine

22 A. Legal standard

23 "Although the Federal Rules of Evidence do not explicitly authorize in limine rulings, the 24 practice has developed pursuant to the district court's inherent authority to manage the course of 25 trials." Luce v. U.S., 469 U.S. 38, 41 n.4 (1980). Judges have broad discretion when ruling on 26

27 ¹ The Ninth Circuit also reversed summary judgment on plaintiff's claim for deliberate indifference arising from 28 another factual incident. (Doc. # 144). The parties subsequently settled the deliberate indifference claim. (Doc. # 197).

1 motions in limine. See Jenkins v. Chrysler Motors Corp., 316 F.3d 663, 664 (7th Cir. 2002); see also
2 Trevino v. Gates, 99 F.3d 911, 922 (9th Cir. 1999) (“The district court has considerable latitude in 3 performing a Rule 403 balancing test and we will uphold its decision absent clear abuse of 4 discretion”).

5 “[I]n limine rulings are not binding on the trial judge [who] may always change his mind
6 during the course of a trial.” Ohler v. United States, 529 U.S. 753, 758 n.3 (2000); accord Luce, 469
7 U.S. at 41 (noting that in limine rulings are always subject to change, especially if the evidence
8 unfolds in an unanticipated manner). “Denial of a motion in limine does not necessarily mean that 9 all evidence contemplated by the motion will be admitted at trial. Denial merely means that without 10 the context of trial, the court is unable to determine whether the evidence in question should be 11 excluded.” Indiana Ins. Co. v. Gen. Elec. Co., 326 F. Supp.2d 844, 846 (N.D. Ohio 2004).

B. Discussion

13 The court will address only those facts which are pertinent to resolution of the instant
14 motions in limine.

1) Plaintiff's motion in limine # 1 requesting an order permitting plaintiff to appear at trial in civilian clothes and unshackled (doc. # 183)

17 Plaintiff requests that the court permit him to appear in civilian clothes and unshackled
18 during the proceedings. (Doc. # 183). Plaintiff contends that appearing before the jury in prison garb
19 and in restraints will unduly prejudice the jury against him. Plaintiff relies on a case, Deck v.
20 Missouri, 544 U.S. 622 (2005), that discusses the use of visible shackles during the guilt phase of 21 a criminal trial. Id. at 626. Plaintiff contends that the burden is on the Nevada Department of 22 Corrections (“NDOC”) to provide concrete evidence that there are concerns regarding “essential state 23 interests such as physical security, escape prevention or courtroom decorum” to justify the use of 24 restraints at trial. Id. at 631.

25 But plaintiff concedes that this matter does not concern a presumption of innocence regarding 26 crimes committed—as he is prosecuting this case. Regardless of this concession, plaintiff argues that 27 being required to wear prisoner clothing and appear in restraints will unnecessarily prejudice him

1 || in pursuing this civil rights claim.

a. Civilian clothes

3 Defendants counter that the mere fact that a prisoner plaintiff wears prison clothing during 4 trial in full view of the jury does undermine the fairness of the proceeding because the jury already 5 knows that the inmate is a convicted prisoner. See Duckett v. Godinez, 67 F.3d 734, 747 (9th Cir.
6 1995).

7 Here, while the jury may not be prejudiced against plaintiff if he is wearing prison clothing
8 because the factual circumstances underlying plaintiff's allegation readily demonstrate that plaintiff
9 has already been deprived his liberty, see Duckett, 67 F.3d at 747 (holding that “[p]rison clothing
10 cannot be considered inherently prejudicial when the jury already knows, based on other facts, that 11 the defendant has been deprived his liberty.”) (citation omitted), the court finds sufficient reason to 12 GRANT this request.

13 The court permits plaintiff to appear in civilian clothing during his jury trial due to the 14 likelihood of prejudice that would result should plaintiff be required to appear in his prison clothing.
15 See Estelle v. Williams, 425 U.S. 501, 504–507 (1976). Plaintiff is required to supply his own clothes 16 and the court will not entertain any deviation from trial schedule to accommodate this request.

b. Restraints

18 The right to appear before a jury free of shackles is not absolute. Wilson v. McCarthy, 770
19 F.2d 1482, 1484–85 (9th Cir. 1985). Shackling is inherently prejudicial, but it is not per se
20 unconstitutional. See Spain v. Rushen, 883 F.2d 712, 716 (9th Cir. 1989). Under certain 21 circumstances, “shackling . . . may be appropriate because of the public’s competing interest in 22 courtroom security and the just administration of law.” Id. at 722 (citing Illinois v. Allen, 397 U.S.
23 337, 344, (1970)). Because of the potential for prejudice, however, due process requires that shackles 24 be used only as a “last resort.” Illinois v. Allen, 397 U.S. at 344.

25 In the Ninth Circuit, “it is a denial of due process if a trial court orders a defendant shackled
26 without first engaging in a two-step process.” Duckett, 67 F.3d at 748 (citing Castillo v. Stainer, 983
27 F.2d 145, 147–48 (9th Cir.1992), as amended by, 997 F.2d 669 (9th Cir.1993)). “First, the court

1 must be persuaded by compelling circumstances ‘that some measure [is] needed to maintain security
 2 of the courtroom.’” Id. (quoting Jones v. Meyer, 899 F.2d 883, 885 (9th Cir. 1990), cert. denied, 498
 3 U.S. 832 (1990)).

4 Compelling circumstances may include prisoner status, propensity for violence, and history
 5 of unruly conduct. See Wilson v. McCarthy, 770 F.2d 1482, 1485 (9th Cir. 1985). Prisoner status,
 6 standing alone, may not warrant shackling, but it may justify the court’s concern for security. Id. “
 7 Shackling an inmate is proper where a serious threat of escape or danger to those in and around the 8 courtroom exists. Id. “The judge has wide discretion to decide whether a defendant who has a 9 propensity for violence poses a security risk and warrants increased security measures.” Morgan v.
 10 Bunnell, 24 F.3d 49, 51 (9th Cir. 1994). Second, if the court finds compelling circumstances exist, 11 then it must pursue less restrictive alternatives by balancing prejudicial effects before imposing 12 physical restraints. Morgan, 24 F.3d at 51; Wilson, 770 F.2d at 1484.

13 Defendants request that plaintiff be required to wear shackles at the ankles to the floor, such 14 that the shackles are not in the sight of the potential jury during voirie dire or in sight of the jury once
 15 it is selected, by means developed by the court. (Doc. # 200, 5:3-5). Defendants argue that 16 “compelling circumstances” exist because according to plaintiff’s commitment orders, plaintiff’s
 17 criminal background demonstrates his dangerous propensities, including use-of-deadly-weapon
 18 enhancement. See Brown v. Kavanaugh, 1:08-CV-01764-LJO, 2013 WL 1124301 (E.D. Cal. 2013)
 19 (finding that an inmate’s previous convictions for murder and assault demonstrated that the inmate 20 posed a risk of danger to persons in the courtroom and justified the use of restraints).

21 Defendants have made a sufficient showing that “compelling circumstances” exist because 22 plaintiff’s criminal history includes violent conduct. While plaintiff’s prisoner status alone is not 23 adequate to warrant restraints, the court finds that plaintiff’s incarcerated status in light of his 24 criminal history requires increased security measures. Further, the court finds that the method of 25 physical restraints described in Brown, 2013 WL 11242301, at *3, to be a less restrictive alternative 26 of restraining plaintiff during trial. That is, plaintiff’s ankles shall be shackled to the floor out of the 27 sight of potential jurors and the jury, once selected, by using a skirted table cloth at counsel table.

28

1 Id.

2 Because a sufficient showing has been made that compelling circumstances exist and since 3 less restrictive means are available, plaintiff's request to be free from restraints is DENIED.

4 2) Defendants' motion in limine # 1 to exclude defendants' use of force on 5 plaintiff and any alleged injuries to plaintiff arising therefrom (doc. # 6 184)

7 Previously, on summary judgment, this court dismissed plaintiff's Eighth Amendment
 8 excessive force claim related to same factual conduct underlying the claim at issue for trial. (Doc.
 9 # 70). The Ninth Circuit affirmed this court. (Doc. # 144). Based on the dismissal of plaintiff's
 10 Eighth Amendment claim, defendants request that the court bar evidence or argument that states or 11 would suggest that (1) defendants used improper or excessive force on plaintiff and (2) plaintiff 12 suffered any physical injury, mental or emotional injury, pain, suffering, or apprehension from 13 defendants' use of force. (Doc. # 184). Defendants seek to exclude this evidence on the basis that 14 it is irrelevant and unfairly prejudicial. FED. R. EVID. 401-403.

15 Plaintiff responds that defendants are seeking to extend the dismissal of the Eighth 16 Amendment claim to shield their "actions" against plaintiff with respect to plaintiff's First 17 Amendment claim. Plaintiff points to the conduct the Ninth Circuit listed as relevant to the retaliation 18 claim, including: (1) plaintiff's removal from his cell; (2) defendants yelling curses at plaintiff for 19 several minutes; and (3) Lunkwitz telling plaintiff explicitly not to submit any more grievances.
 20 (Doc. # 202, 2:18-23; see also doc. # 144, p. 4-5).

21 The court finds that the subject matter of defendants' use of force against plaintiff is not
 22 relevant to his retaliation claim. There is no excessive force component of the retaliation claim.²
 23 Further, the court finds that re-litigating the excessive force issue at trial would unfairly prejudice
 24

25 ² A plaintiff suing prison officials pursuant to § 1983 for retaliation must prove sufficient facts that show that:
 26 (1) the retaliated-against First Amendment conduct is protected; (2) the defendant took adverse action against plaintiff;
 27 (3) there is a causal connection between the adverse action and the protected conduct; (4) the act would chill or silence
 28 a person of ordinary firmness from engaging in future First Amendment activities; and (5) the conduct does not further a legitimate penological interest. Davis v. Powell, 901 F. Supp. 2d 1196, 1213 (S.D. Cal. 2012) (quoting Watison v. Carter, 668 F.3d 1108, 1114 (9th Cir. 2012)).

1 defendants who have already prevailed on this claim and would confuse the jury by conflating
 2 plaintiff's First Amendment retaliation claim with his Eighth Amendment excessive force claim.
 3 Thus, evidence or argument as to defendants' use of force is properly excluded from trial.

4 However, the court will permit testimony and evidence regarding (1) plaintiff's removal from 5 his cell; (2) defendants yelling curses at plaintiff for several minutes; and (3) Lunkwitz telling 6 plaintiff explicitly not to submit any more grievances. To the extent the underlying conduct of these 7 acts was also at issue in plaintiff's Eighth Amendment claim—the court finds that the dismissal of 8 the Eighth Amendment claim does not automatically bar admission of testimony and evidence 9 regarding this conduct here. However, if plaintiff chooses to testify and provides testimony as to the 10 rough nature of defendants' conduct—defendants may, at an appropriate time, properly point out that 11 the court has already determined that their conduct was not excessive as a matter of law.

12 Accordingly, this motion is GRANTED in part.

13 3) Defendants' motion in limine # 2 to exclude allegations of negligence or 14 failure to adhere to prison regulations (doc. # 185)

15 Defendants request that the court exclude examination, testimony, evidence, and argument
 16 of allegations of negligence or failure to adhere to prison regulations, specifically to prison rules 17 relating to the handling of plaintiff's emergency grievance or those relating to the events forming the 18 subject matter of this trial, because this information is irrelevant. (Doc. # 185). This request arises
 19 out of defendants' anticipation that plaintiff will provide evidence or testify that his emergency 20 grievance was not properly returned to him with the signature of the supervising officer, allegedly 21 in violation of prison rules.

22 Plaintiff contends that defendants' failure to properly return the emergency grievance is a 23 retaliatory act if it operated to deny him the right to pursue his administrative remedies.

24 The court finds all testimony related to how the emergency grievance was handled by prison
 25 officials as relevant to the narrow issue that is now before the court at trial. Any concern of confusion 26 to the jury will be extinguished by way of properly instructing the jury as to the elements of 27 retaliation under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. This motion is DENIED.

28

4) Defendants' motion in limine # 3 to exclude the existence of any physical injuries sustained by plaintiff and the recovery of money damages for the same (doc. # 186)

4 Defendants seek to exclude examination, evidence, and argument that state or suggest that:
5 (1) plaintiff suffered physical, mental or emotional injuries and (2) plaintiff may seek or recover
6 money damages for the same because it is not relevant and prejudicial. (Doc. # 186). Defendants
7 argue that plaintiff can pursue only nominal and punitive damages, not actual damages. Defendants
8 argue that plaintiff cannot be awarded actual damages for physical or mental/emotional injuries
9 because (1) this court has already determined that plaintiff suffered only de minimis physical injuries
10 in connection with the physical force defendants used on him, (2) plaintiff's Eighth Amendment
11 excessive force claim was dismissed; (3) use of force is not an issue in a retaliation claim; and (4) 12 the failure to show a physical injury that amounts to more than a de minimis injury bars plaintiff from 13 recovering money damages for mental or emotional pain for his retaliation claim under the Prison
14 Litigation Reform Act ("PLRA").

15 Plaintiff concedes that he will not be able to prove that he suffered any actual, physical 16 injuries and therefore cannot recover compensatory damages. On this basis the court GRANTS
17 defendants' motion.³

5) Defendants' motion in limine # 4 to exclude evidence of alleged "conspiracy" by defendants to violate the rights of plaintiff (doc. # 187)

20 Defendants argue that plaintiff should not be permitted to argue that defendants conspired 21 together because civil conspiracy was not alleged in the complaint and therefore is not relevant to 22 plaintiff's retaliation claim. (Doc. # 187). Defendants also argue that to the extent that evidence and 23 testimony regarding a conspiracy amongst defendants is relevant, it is unduly prejudicial because it

³ However, because plaintiff may seek punitive damages, evidence and testimony regarding actions taken against plaintiff are necessarily relevant to whether there exists evidence to support a punitive damages award. See Morgan v. Woessner, 997 F.2d 1244, 1255 (9th Cir. 1993) (stating that “[i]t is well established that a ‘jury may award punitive damages under section 1983 either when a defendant’s conduct was driven by evil motive or intent, or when it involved a reckless or callous indifference to the constitutional rights of others.’” Id. at 1255) (quoting Davis v. Mason County, 927 F.2d 1473, 1485 (9th Cir. 1991)).

1 will confuse the jury. Specifically, defendants argue that testimony or argument concerning 2 defendants “conspiring” against plaintiff, “sweeping [his concerns] under the rug” or other similarly
 3 conspiratorial language seeks only to arouse the prejudices of the jury by attempting to frame
 4 defendants’ overseers who were “out to get” plaintiff.

5 Plaintiff responds that he specifically alleged that in furtherance of defendants’ retaliatory 6 acts, defendants acted “collectively and/or individually” (see doc. # 53, p. 27), and therefore should 7 be permitted to introduce such evidence and make related arguments.

8 Because a conspiratorial agreement between defendants need not be overt and can be 9 properly “inferred” from circumstantial evidence surrounding their actions, see Mendocino Envtl.
 10 Ctr. v. Mendocino Cnty., 192 F.3d 1283, 1301 (9th Cir. 1999), the court finds that plaintiff’s 11 allegation of collective conduct sufficient to warrant admission of evidence and testimony as to 12 whether there was an agreement to violate plaintiff’s constitutional rights. Plaintiff is free to argue
 13 this issue—whether the evidence supports this argument is an issue for the jury to resolve. The court
 14 DENIES this motion.

15 6) Defendants’ motion in limine # 5 to exclude evidence of defendant Ward
 16 and Barth’s culpable conduct or liability for any cause of action in this 17 case (doc. # 188)

18 Defendants seek an order excluding evidence and argument at trial that states or suggests that 19 defendants Barth and Ward engaged in culpable conduct or are otherwise exposed to liability for any 20 cause of action in this case. (Doc. # 188). Defendants argue that plaintiff cannot prevail on a 21 retaliation claim against Barth and Ward because (1) plaintiff has not alleged that anyone other than 22 Lunkwitz told plaintiff not to file any more grievances; (2) plaintiff has alleged that Barth and 23 Ward’s culpable conduct consisted of only verbal abuse and verbal abuse of an inmate does not state
 24 a constitutional claim under § 1983; (3) a retaliation claim requires verbal abuse and an instruction
 25 not to file grievances constituting an “intimidating admonition” not to file grievance; and (4) only 26 Lunkwitz is alleged to have engaged in both verbally abusing plaintiff and instructing him not to 27 file grievances. Therefore, defendants’ position is that only Lunkwitz should proceed to trial on 28

1 plaintiff's retaliation claim.

2 Defendants argue that the Ninth Circuit erred when it remanded the case as to all defendants
 3 (Lunkwitz, Ward and Barth). Defendants contend that when the Ninth Circuit stated that it was 4 Lunkwitz's "intimidating admonition" that raised a triable First Amendment claim—not the verbal 5 abuse of Barth and Ward—the appellate court indicated that only Lunkwitz may be liable.

6 While defendants make a compelling argument, the court is not inclined to find that the Ninth 7 Circuit erred in its remand order. The Ninth Circuit unequivocally stated that,

8 The evidence submitted on summary judgment therefore establishes a genuine issue
 9 of material fact as to whether the actions taken against Lyons by Lunkwitz, Ward, and Barth constituted unconstitutional retaliation for his having requested a written 10 response to the denial of his emergency grievance.

11 (Doc. # 144, p. 5 (citation omitted) (emphasis added)). Therefore, the court will conduct a jury trial 12 as to whether the actions of all defendants amounted to liability for retaliation. This motion is 13 DENIED.

14 7) Defendants' motion in limine # 6 to exclude attempts to impermissibly 15 shift the burden of proof in this matter by suggesting defendant failed to 16 present evidence or witnesses (doc. # 189)

17 Defendants seek an order excluding examination, testimony, evidence, and argument that 18 attempts to impermissibly shift the burden of proof in this matter to defendants by suggesting that 19 defendants failed to present evidence or witnesses. (Doc. # 189). Defendants argue that they do not 20 have the burden to disprove any element of plaintiff's retaliation claim. Defendants concern arises 21 from their anticipation that plaintiff will argue that defendants' failure to put on evidence will 22 demonstrate that defendants did not have a legitimate penological interest.

23 Plaintiff bears the burden of establishing that defendants' lacked a penological interest. See 24 Pratt v. Rowland, 65 F.3d 802, 806 (9th Cir. 1995) (stating that "a successful retaliation claim
 25 requires a finding that the prison authorities' retaliatory action did not advance legitimate goals of 26 the correctional institution or was not tailored narrowly enough to achieve such goals . . . plaintiff
 27 bears the burden of pleading and proving the absence of legitimate correctional goals for the conduct

28

1 of which he complains.” Id. (quotations and citations omitted)). Therefore, the court GRANTS this
2 motion.

8) Defendants' motion in limine # 7 to exclude evidence of non-parties as parties in this suit and non-issues as issues to be tried (doc. # 190)

5 Defendants seek an order barring counsel, the parties, and the witnesses from stating or 6 suggesting that non-parties to this case and non-issues are issues to be tried. (Doc. # 190). At the 7 outset of this litigation, there were other parties and issues that have now since been resolved.

8 There remains one discrete issue upon which the parties are to go to trial. There remain three 9 defendants of the initially 12 named defendants. All that is relevant for the purposes of this trial are 10 facts that underlie plaintiff's retaliation claim against defendants Barth, Ward, and Lunkwitz.
11 Testimony regarding claims that have been resolved or parties that have been dismissed is irrelevant.
12 The court GRANTS this motion.⁴

9) Defendants' motion in limine # 8 to exclude evidence of prior bad acts or character of defendants to prove conformity therewith (doc. # 191)

15 Defendants request that the court bar testimony, argument, questions or other references to 16 alleged prior bad acts, including acts of retaliation against other inmates, on the part of defendants
17 or other correctional officers with whom defendants associate under Fed. R. Evid. 404(b). (Doc. #
18 191). Defendant argues that inmate testimony concerning the acts of defendants toward other inmates 19 creates a significant danger that the jury would base its assessment of liability on events involving 20 those inmates, instead of events concerning plaintiff.

21 Further, defendants contend that none of the purposes for which character evidence is 22 admissible apply here because plaintiff's retaliation claims arises from an incident that occurred
23 shortly after he was transferred to HDSP. Since defendants did not have much time with plaintiff

25 ⁴To the extent that defendants seek to exclude evidence or argument suggesting “race or racism,” the court finds
26 this issue premature to rule on. Without knowing what evidence will be elicited at trial, the court cannot determine 27 whether evidence or argument suggesting “race or racism” is relevant. However, the court will grant defendants’ request 28 to exclude evidence and argument regarding “the unfortunate plight of other inmates as caused by the abuse and inappropriate or unfair treatment of prison officials.” The circumstances of persons not before this court are not relevant to plaintiff’s retaliation claim.

1 before this incident, defendants argue that they did not have time to develop a motive or illustrate
2 intent, preparation or plan to retaliate against plaintiff.

3 Plaintiff submits a partial opposition conceding that evidence of prior bad acts is not
4 admissible to establish defendants' liability for plaintiff's retaliation claim. But plaintiff argues that 5 this conduct is relevant for purposes of liability for punitive damages.

6 The court GRANTS this motion. Surely, character evidence is inadmissible to show that 7 defendants acted in accordance therewith on this particular occasion. See Fed. R. Evid. 404(b). It
8 would be improper for the jury to base its assessment of liability on events involving other inmates.
9 To the extent evidence of prior bad acts satisfy an exception under Fed. R. Evid. 404(b), the court 10 will permit this testimony during the punitive damages phase of trial.

11 10) Defendants' motion in limine # 9 to exclude other lawsuits and claims
12 filed against defendants or NDOC officials for purposes of suggesting or 13 establishing prior bad acts (doc. # 192)

14 Defendants seek an order barring counsel, the parties, and the witnesses from presenting 15 examination, evidence, or argument at trial concerning other lawsuits or claims filed against 16 defendants or NDOC officials because it is not relevant, unduly prejudicial, and is inadmissible
17 character evidence. (Doc. # 192; see also FED. R. EVID. 401-404).

18 Plaintiff concedes that evidence of prior bad acts is not admissible to establish defendants'
19 liability for plaintiff's retaliation claim. But plaintiff argues that a history of similar matters in 20 litigation or previous grievances filed against defendants is admissible to establish an evil motive 21 for punitive damages.

22 The court disagrees with plaintiff. Other litigation or previous grievances filed by plaintiff
23 or other inmates against NDOC officials are irrelevant. These matters are tangentially related at best 24 and are unduly prejudicial as liability in a previous lawsuit might color the jury's opinion of 25 defendants' conduct in the instant matter. Accordingly, this motion is GRANTED.

11) Defendants' motion in limine # 10 to exclude evidence of the operability of the "food slot" in the door of plaintiff's prison cell and defendants' method of extracting him from the cell (doc. # 193)

4 Defendants request the court to bar plaintiff and plaintiff's counsel from offering testimony,
5 argument, questions or other references to either the operability of the "food slot" in plaintiff's cell
6 and/or defendants' method of handcuffing and removing plaintiff from his cell because it is 7 irrelevant. (Doc. # 193). Defendants anticipate that plaintiff will assert that entry into his cell to 8 handcuff him for extraction (the method used by the defendants in this case) as opposed to 9 handcuffing him through the "food slot"(a method also used) is evidence of defendants' intent to 10 harm or intimidate plaintiff.

11 Defendants argue that after plaintiff filed the emergency grievance complaining of his 12 cellmate, they had a penological interest in extracting plaintiff from the cell in this manner so as not 13 to expose plaintiff to unnecessary harm by his cellmate while handcuffing plaintiff through the “food
14 slot”. That is, plaintiff would be unable to defend himself against his cellmate, should his cellmate 15 attack him while officers are placing the handcuffs on plaintiff through the “food slot”.

16 While defendants may have a sufficient penological interest to employ the method used to 17 remove plaintiff from his cell, this is an issue properly resolved by the jury. The manner in which 18 defendants removed plaintiff from his cell is part of the relevant conduct underlying plaintiff's
19 retaliation claim—the court declines to exclude evidence that has bearing as to whether defendants'
20 conduct amounts to retaliation. The court DENIES this motion.

21 || III. Other pretrial motions

A. Examine out-of-state witness (doc. # 198)

23 Defendants seek leave of the court to examine out-of-state witness Ollie Powe, a former-
24 correctional lieutenant at HDSP, at trial by contemporaneous video transmission from Mississippi
25 pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 43(a). (Doc. # 198). Defendants argue that Powe, who was acting as a 26 shift commander at the time of the incident underlying plaintiff's First Amendment claim, is an 27 important fact witness. Defendants further point out that Powe cannot be compelled by subpoena to

1 testify at trial in person as has since retired from his position from NDOC and has moved to 2 Mississippi. See FED. R. CIV. P. 45(c)(3)(A)(ii).

3 Defendants represent that given Powe's work schedule, he could testify in-person only on 4 Friday. However, given that this trial is projected to take five days, the matter will likely be 5 submitted to the jury by Friday of the five-day trial week. Defendants represent that if permitted to 6 testify by video, Powe could testify in the morning of Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, or anytime
 7 on Thursday. Plaintiff joins defendants' motion. (Doc. # 213).

8 Fed. R. Civ. P. 43 provides, in part:

9 At trial, the witnesses' testimony must be taken in open court unless a federal statute,
 10 the Federal Rules of Evidence, these rules, or other rules adopted by the Supreme 11 Court provide otherwise. For good cause in compelling circumstances and with appropriate safeguards, the court may permit testimony in open court by contemporaneous transmission from a different location.

12 FED. R. CIV. P. 43(a). Commentary to Fed. R. Civ. P. 43 states that "the most persuasive showings
 13 of good cause and compelling circumstances are likely to arise when a witness is unable to attend
 14 trial for unexpected reasons, such as accident or illness, but remains able to testify from a different 15 location." The commentary goes on to note that "[g]ood cause and compelling circumstances may 16 be established with relative ease if all parties agree that testimony should be presented by 17 transmission."

18 Defendants argue that it was not expected in 2005, when this case was filed, that the trial
 19 would occur eight years later. Powe, who was once a defendant in this matter, has since been 20 dismissed from this action through the litigation cycle of partial dismissal, complete dismissal, 21 appeal, and remand. Defendants argue that good cause in compelling circumstances are present under 22 Fed. R. Civ. P. 43(a) to permit contemporaneous testimony.

23 The court finds that given Powe's unavailability to travel to testify in this matter, Powe's 24 location more than 100 miles from this court, the purported "vital testimony" he is anticipated to 25 provide at trial, and plaintiff's joinder to this motion—the court finds good cause in compelling
 26 circumstances that warrant Powe to testify via video-conference. Further, the court finds that the jury 27 can adequately fulfill their sworn duties by examining Powe as he testifies by observing his 28

1 demeanor and evaluating his credibility. Therefore, the court GRANTS this motion.

2 B. Produce inmate (doc. # 199)

3 Defendants request the court to issue an order to produce NDOC inmate Phillip Lyons,
 4 NDOC ID No. 33833, to the court for each day of trial pursuant to NRS § 209.274(1). (Doc. # 198).
 5 Further, defendants request an order requiring NDOC to produce testifying inmates to a live-video-
 6 transmission location within their respective prisons to enable those inmates to provide testimony
 7 at trial, by remote, contemporaneous transmission pursuant to NRS § 209.274(2)(a) and Fed. R. Civ.
 8 P. 43(a) if permitted to testify at trial. Plaintiff joins defendants' motion. (Doc. # 214).

9 Defendants' request is subject to the court's resolution of their objections to permitting the 10 inmates to testify. (See doc. # 182). Defendants have filed a supplement to their objections and 11 advised the court that following inmates will not testify at trial: Percy Bacon, Tarz Mitchell, and 12 Donald Mitchell (see doc. # 212). However, there remains an NDOC inmate that plaintiff wishes to 13 testify: Curtis Downing (NDOC ID. No. 18675). Defendants object to this inmate because plaintiff
 14 purportedly wants to call Downing to testify about HDSP's inmate-intake procedure. (Doc. # 212, 15 3:6-7). Defendants argue that Downing is not a percipient witness to the events at issue and that his 16 knowledge of prior or subsequent inmate-intake procedures is not relevant and not permissible
 17 testimony under the Federal Rules of Evidence. See FED. R. EVID. 401, 403, 404(b), and 407.

18 The court agrees with defendants. The court SUSTAINS defendants' objection to inmate
 19 Downing testifying as to the prison's inmate-intake procedure in general because it is not relevant
 20 to resolving plaintiff's retaliation claim.⁵

21 Therefore, there being no opposition to the request that plaintiff be produced to court each 22 day of trial, the court GRANTS this request. Further, the request that inmate Downing provide 23 testimony by remote, contemporaneous transmission, the court conditionally DENIES the request 24 based on the court sustaining defendants' objection to this inmate's testimony.

25 . . .

26 . . .

27

28 ⁵ If plaintiff seeks to call inmate Downing for another purpose, he may raise this issue at trial.

1 C. Plaintiff's motion for leave to examine in-custody witness (doc. # 241)

2 Plaintiff seeks leave of the court to examine in-custody witness inmate Marcel McKnight at 3 trial by contemporaneous video transmission. (Doc. # 241). Plaintiff states that inmate McKnight
 4 was the other inmate housed in the HDSP intake unit, in holding cell A-1-9, when defendants
 5 removed plaintiff from the holding cell. Plaintiff represents that McKnight is currently housed at a 6 facility in the Northern Nevada Correctional Center. Defendants have not responded. (See docket 7 generally).

8 There being no opposition to the request that inmate McKnight provide testimony by remote,
 9 contemporaneous video transmission,⁶ the court finds good cause in compelling circumstances and 10 conditionally GRANTS the request pending resolution of defendants' objection⁷ and consideration
 11 of the factors outlined in Wiggins v. Alameda Cnty., 717 F.2d 466, 468 n.1 (9th Cir. 1983).⁸

12 IV. Conclusion

13 Accordingly,

14 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that prisoner plaintiff Phillip
 15 J. Lyons' motion in limine # 1 requesting an order permitting plaintiff to appear at trial in civilian 16 clothes and unshackled (doc. # 183) be and the same hereby is, GRANTED in part and DENIED in 17 part, consistent with section II.B.1, supra.

19 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that plaintiff shall be required to wear ankle restraints to the 20 floor. These ankle restraints shall be out of the jury's view using a skirted table cloth at counsel table
 21 to obstruct the jury's view of the shackles. Further, plaintiff shall testify from counsel table in order

22

23 ⁶See FED. R.CIV. P. 43(a) (stating “[g]ood cause and compelling circumstances may be established with relative 24 ease if all parties agree that testimony should be presented by transmission.”).

25 ⁷ Defendants also object to Marcel McKnight's testimony because it is redundant. (See doc. # 182). The court 26 has not yet resolved this objection.

27 ⁸ These factors include “(1) whether the inmate's presence will substantially further the resolution of the case,
 28 (2) the security risks presented by the inmate's presence, (3) the expense of transportation and security, and (4) whether the suit can be stayed until the inmate is released without prejudice to the cause asserted”. Brush v. Woodford, 1:07-CV-01009-DLB PC, 2011 WL 3489851, at *2 (E.D. Cal. Aug. 9, 2011) (citing Wiggins v. Alameda Cnty., 717 F.2d 466, 468 n.1 (9th Cir. 1983)).

1 for him to have his exhibits, notes, and other documents within easy reach during his testimony.

2 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants Paul Lunkwitz, Santerren Ward, and Jay
3 Barth's motion in limine # 1 to exclude defendants' use of force on plaintiff and any alleged injuries
4 to plaintiff arising therefrom (doc. # 184) be, and the same hereby is, GRANTED in part, consistent 5 with section II.B.2, supra.

6 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion in limine # 2 to exclude allegations 7 of negligence or failure to adhere to prison regulations (doc. # 185) be, and the same hereby is,
8 DENIED, see section II.B.3, supra.

9 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion in limine # 3 to exclude the existence 10 of any physical injuries sustained by plaintiff and the recovery of money damages for the same (doc.
11 # 186) be, and the same hereby is, GRANTED, consistent with section II.B.4, supra.

12 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion in limine # 4 to exclude evidence of 13 alleged "conspiracy" by defendants to violate the rights of plaintiff (doc. # 187) be, and the same
14 hereby is, DENIED, see section II.B.5, supra.

15 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion in limine # 5 to exclude evidence of 16 defendant Ward and Barth's culpable conduct or liability for any cause of action in this case (doc.
17 # 188) be, and the same hereby is, DENIED, see section II.B.6, supra.

18 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion in limine # 6 to exclude attempts to 19 impermissibly shift the burden of proof in this matter by suggesting defendant failed to present
20 evidence or witnesses (doc. # 189) be, and the same hereby is, GRANTED, consistent with section 21 II.B.7, supra.

22 IT IS FURTHERED ORDERED that defendants' motion in limine # 7 to exclude evidence
23 of non-parties as parties in this suit and non-issues as issues to be tried (doc. # 190) be, and the same
24 hereby is, GRANTED, consistent with section II.B.8, supra.

25 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion in limine # 8 to exclude evidence of 26 prior bad acts or character of defendants to prove conformity therewith (doc. # 191) be, and the same
27 hereby is, GRANTED, consistent with section II.B.9, supra.

28

1 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion in limine # 9 to exclude other lawsuits
2 and claims filed against defendants or NDOC officials for purposes of suggesting or establishing 3 prior bad acts (doc. # 192) be, and the same hereby is, GRANTED, consistent with section II.B.10, 4 supra.

5 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion in limine # 10 to exclude evidence of 6 the operability of the "food slot" in the door of plaintiff's prison cell and defendants' method of 7 extracting him from the cell (doc. # 193) be, and the same hereby is, DENIED, see section II.B.11, 8 supra.

9 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion for leave to examine out-of-state
10 witness Ollie Powe at trial by contemporaneous video transmission (doc. # 198) be, and the same 11 hereby is, GRANTED, consistent with section III.A, supra.

12 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that defendants arrange for Powe to testify by 13 contemporaneous video transmission.

14 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion for order to produce inmate witnesses
15 at trial and at remote, video transmission sites (doc. # 199) be, and the same hereby is, GRANTED
16 in part and DENIED in part, consistent with section III.B, supra.

17 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that defendants arrange for NDOC to produce inmate Phillip
18 Lyons (NDOC ID No. 33833) to courtroom 6A in the federal courthouse for each day of trial starting 19 Monday, July 22, 2013, by 9:00 a.m.

20 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that plaintiff's motion for leave to examine in-custody witness
21 Marcel McKnight at trial by contemporaneous video transmission (doc. # 241) be, and the same
22 hereby is, GRANTED, consistent with section III.C, supra.⁹

23 ...

24 ...

25 ...

26

27 ⁹ Plaintiff's previous motion on this issue (doc. # 215) is DENIED as moot. Also plaintiff's request that the court
28 take judicial notice of Powe's declarations (doc. # 238) is DENIED as moot. This issue can be resolved at trial.

1 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that plaintiff arrange for NDOC to produce testifying inmate
2 Marcel McKnight to a live-video-transmission location within his respective prison to enable this
3 inmate to provide testimony at trial, by remote, contemporaneous transmission if permitted to testify 4 at trial.
